Derek James to coach women's basketball, golf

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. – Derek James, assistant women's and men's basketball coach at MacMurray College for the past two years, will step in as interim Head Women's Basketball and Golf Coach, effective immediately.

He replaces Anne Ewing, who resigned the position earlier this week. The St. Louis-area native will take the position of Head Women's Basketball Coach at Lindenwood University in Belleville.

James, a member of the MacMurray College Athletic Hall of Fame in basketball and a golf professional, will be working with current students and with prospective students to ensure that the transition to a new head coach will be smooth. A search for a new full-time coach will begin shortly.
